3. Working to integrate health and safety within our operations and, where our actions and products have impact upon them, the operations of our suppliers and customers;
4. Fostering a risk management culture which openly facilitates the reporting of risks and incidents and empowers employees to act on any unsafe situation;
5. Controlling any new hazards through effective change management processes;
6. Ensuring effective and equitable injury management through responsible claims management and rehabilitation;
7. Maintaining structured health and safety management systems, with common global corporate standards, that provide a framework for effective hazard identification and management; and,
8. Driving continuous improvement in each of the above commitments through a program of regularly reviewed objectives and targets.
